

Key Component 1: Get Them to Join the Team

Below are some tips to use when building relationships and getting school-day staff and leaders on board:

- You will see different strategies listed here to help you make a decision.
- Discuss how you could impact student performance.
- Know the needs of the school.
- Review and be able to quote the data.
- Prepare an elevator speech with the above information.
- Offer to set convenient meeting times.
- Assure meetings are organized and short.
- Ask if he can offer another staff member to be his liaison.
- Offer to make meetings available virtually.
- You will see different strategies listed here to help you make a decision.
- If allowable, offer to pay for their time.
- Offer to make meetings available virtually.
- Give specific examples of how working together can actually save the teacher time and increase student achievement.
- You will see different strategies listed here to help you make a decision.
- If allowable, offer to pay for their time.
- Provide concrete ways they can help design academic enrichment activities.
- If they live in the community, they can be the bridge to events and content connections.